to Carbondale's History by Becoming Members of

THE FRIENDS OF D&H CABOOSE 35964

From October 9, 1829, when the first shipment of anthracite coal went up Plane No.1 out of Carbondale, headed for Honesdale, over the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company's Gravity Railroad, to the present, railroading has been an important part of life in Carbondale.

D&H Caboose 35964 is not only a symbol of 192 years of railroading in Carbondale and the Lackawanna Valley, it can become, at the same time, the key to unlocking and capitalizing on that rich history through heritage tourism.

The Carbondale Historical Society and Museum, Inc. and the City of Carbondale are proud to have brought home D&H Caboose 35964. If all of us, present and future residents of Carbondale, from all walks of life, come together to preserve this important railcar from Carbondale's historic past, we can create a bright future for D&H Caboose 35964 and for the Pioneer City.
